DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of Invention I (claims 1-28) in the reply filed on 7/24/2006 is acknowledged.

Claims 29-49 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Applicant timely traversed the restriction (election) requirement in the reply filed on 7/24/2006.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-4, 6-9, and 12-14, and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Santilli (US Patent 6,364,883) in view of Duff (US Patent 4,611,582) and Zucherman et al. (US Publication 2002 Santilli disclose a spinal device having a first plate and a second plate (see fig. 2), and wherein the plates include at least a first and second slot (see Fig. 1), and wherein the slots are capable of positioning a pin as needed. Also, the longitudinal nature of the slots allows a pin to move along at least a portion of the length of the first and second plates, and wherein at least a portion of the length of a plate could be defined by a slot.

Santilli discloses the claimed invention except for at least an adjustable grip for gripping the spinous processes and a pin. Duff discloses adjustable grips for the spinous processes (20) that can adjust relative to securing the vertebrae (Col. 3, lines 10-30), and a pin portion (58) that would be able to connect through the bores of the plates of Santilli and provide relative positioning and is considered at least substantially perpendicular. It may also be adjusted within the elongate slots. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to construct the device of Santilli having at least an adjustable grip to grip the spine in view of Duff to better secure the device in use.

Santilli discloses the claimed invention except for a spacer. Zucherman et al. disclose a spacer (3132) that aids in spinal fusion of the device and positioning the device relative to the spinal processes (see pars 0028 and 0029). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to construct the device of Santilli having at least the spacer of Zucherman et al. to better secure the device relative to the spinal processes.

Claims 10-11, and 15-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the combination of Santilli '883, Duff '582 and Zucherman et al. '039 as applied to claim 9 above, and further in view of Mathews (US Patent 5,171,279). The combination of Santilli '883, Duff '582 and Zucherman et al. '039 disclose the claimed invention except for the plate having a plurality of lobes or knurls. Mathews discloses a plate that has around a slot a plurality of lobes or knurls that helps secure the screws relative to the plate for securing purposes (Col. 8, lines 25-50). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to construct the device of the combination of Santilli '883, Duff '582 and Zucherman et al. '039 having at least lobes or knurls in view of Mathews to better secure the screws relative to the plate.

Claims 5, 17 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the combination of Santilli '883, Duff '582 and Zucherman et al. '039. The combination of Santilli '883, Duff '582 and Zucherman et al. '039 disclose the claimed invention except for the shape of the spacer being elliptical. It would have been an obvious matter of design choice to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to construct the spacer having an elliptical shape to better fit between the spinous processes of the combination of Santilli '883, Duff '582 and Zucherman et al. '039, since applicant has not disclosed that such solve any stated problem or is anything more than one of numerous shapes or configurations a person ordinary skill in the art would find obvious for the purpose of securing a spinal system. In re Dailey and Eilers, 149 USPQ 47 (1966).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 20-28 are allowed.
